CREATION AND EXPANSION OF IPH&H

The country's acute lack of medical facilities led to the Institute of Public Health & Hygiene's founding in New Delhi in July 1976. The erstwhile academic excellence was established under the capable leadership and mature insight of the Founder Chairman, Late Dr. Shyam Sunder Joshi, whose visionary ideas led him to envision and create an institution that was inclusive, opened its doors to the world, and engaged its service in collaboration with the Country. The institute is coeducational and welcomes students from every walk of life. We are proud to have a large number of international learners serving their country as alumni, hailing from the center of the city.
